A reminder of the skills that we will need to include in our writing 😊

Fronted adverbials – use the work you did last week, revisit the PowerPoint from week 6 to remind yourself of examples you can use in your writing.

Expanded noun phrases – 1 or more adjectives + noun.

Sub- headings

Don't forget the basics:

- Capital letters and basic punctuation used correctly
- Letter formation, try and join the letters that you feel confident with

We are going to write the final paragraph today. Here is what I have written.

Did you know?

Keep your best facts for the end!

Amazingly, trolls love to draw. Fantastic artists draw what they see, each other, landscapes and volcanoes. Sadly, because people think trolls mean, nasty beasts, artwork is hidden, never seen.

Now you have a go at writing your final paragraph

When you have finished...

Reread it to check that it makes sense.

Check any spellings that you may have been unsure of.

Have you got capital letters and full stops?

Check you have added some of the skills you need to include.

This is the end of your literacy session. Come back to this PowerPoint for session 2

Now that you finished your writing you need to re read it to check that it makes sense and check that you have added the skills. You can look back to the start of this PowerPoint to remind yourself of your skills. It is now up to you if you would like to write your work up in neat. 😊 You could write it up in neat with a pen if you are feeling brave!

Design a front cover for your piece of writing as you final literacy task. 😊
