The Secret Place

By Dennis Lee

There's a place I go, inside myself, Where nobody else can be, And none of my friends can tell it's there – Nobody knows but me.

It's hard to explain the way it feels, Or even where I go. It isn't a place in time or space, But once I'm there, I know.

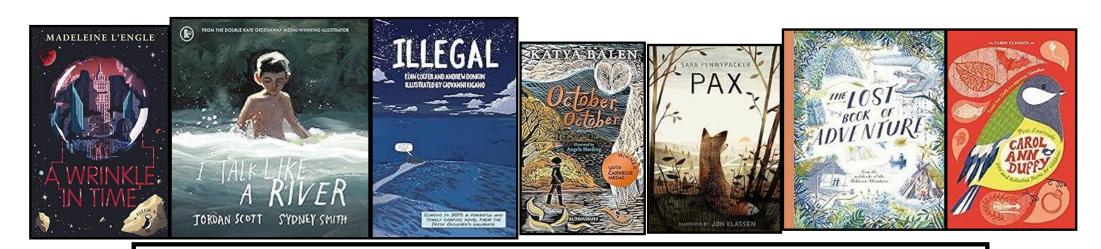

It's tiny, it's shiny, it can't be seen, But it's big as the sky at night... I try to explain and it hurts my brain, But once I'm there, it's right.

There's a place I know inside myself, And it's neither big nor small, And wherever I go, it feels as though I never left at all.
