The Secret Place
By Dennis Lee

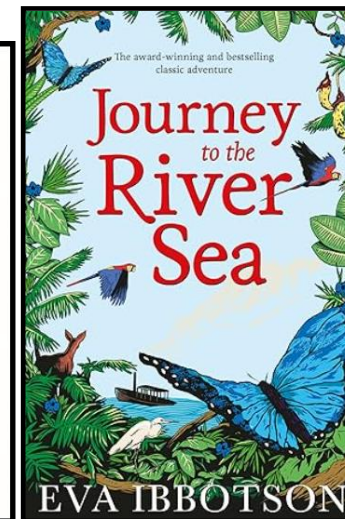

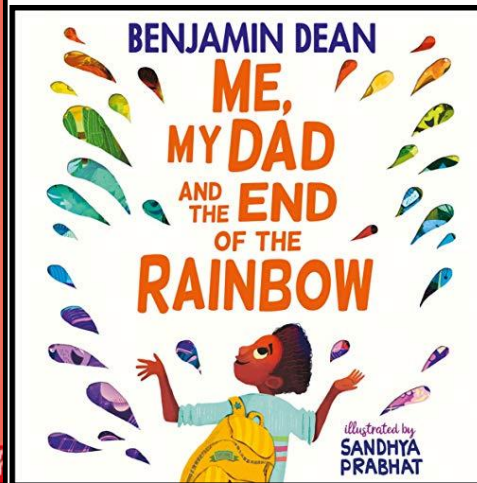

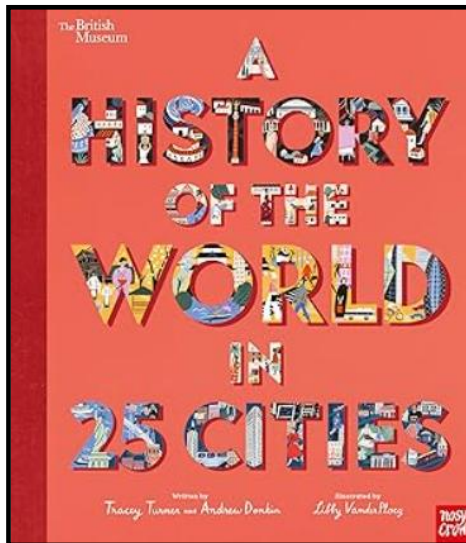

There's a place I go, inside myself,
 Where nobody else can be.
 And none of my friends can tell it's there –
 Nobody knows but me.

It's hard to explain the way it feels,
 Or even where I go.
 It isn't a place in time or space,
 But once I'm there, I know.

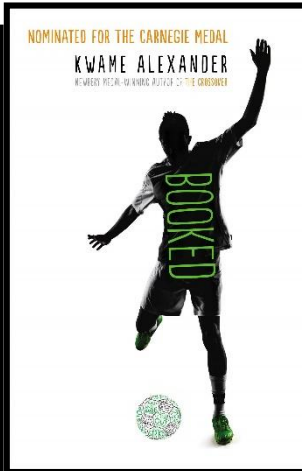

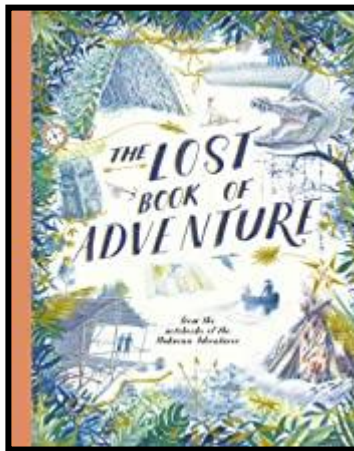

It's tiny, it's shiny, it can't be seen,
 But it's big as the sky at night ...
 I try to explain and it hurts my brain.
 But once I'm there, it's right.

There's a place I know inside myself,
 And it's neither big nor small.
 And whenever I go, it feels as though
 I never left at all.
